BLUE COUCH MEDIA

I am a freelance contractor for this small design company in Portland. The largest project I have worked on with them so far is the AND1 taichi site where I was project manager, flash designer, and flash animator. I was in charge of making sure we met deadlines, access to all the files, in constant contact with our partners, and basically anywhere else I was needed.

OUTBOUNDLIFE

I am currently the creative director and only designer working for this company. We are developing a social networking site for outdoor enthusiasts which is still under development. Not only have I overseen all the creative direction for this company, I design the whole interface and website along with business cards and various marketing materials.

June 2009 - current

POP MULTIMEDIA INC.

I was the production assistant at this large Seattle interactive agency. My responsibilities were to build flash files such as banners, cut-out imagery, set up photoshop files for the web developers, make language changes, help the design process and build web pages based off already existing websites. worked with big name clients like Microsoft, Target, Nintendo and Brown & Forman.
